I realized long ago that you can never live your life as though you can just be bullied around, Mr Gregorovich.

I formed Praetorian Warfare Group at a young age.

I fought in conflicts that none of the big guns would ever go near.

I made powerful allies in my days on the battlefield.

I fought alongside wonders. I've witnessed legends.

When i was injured I put my mind to work expanding PWG...

...as well as my other interests in the fields of robotics, historic preservation and hospitality.

Historic preservation?

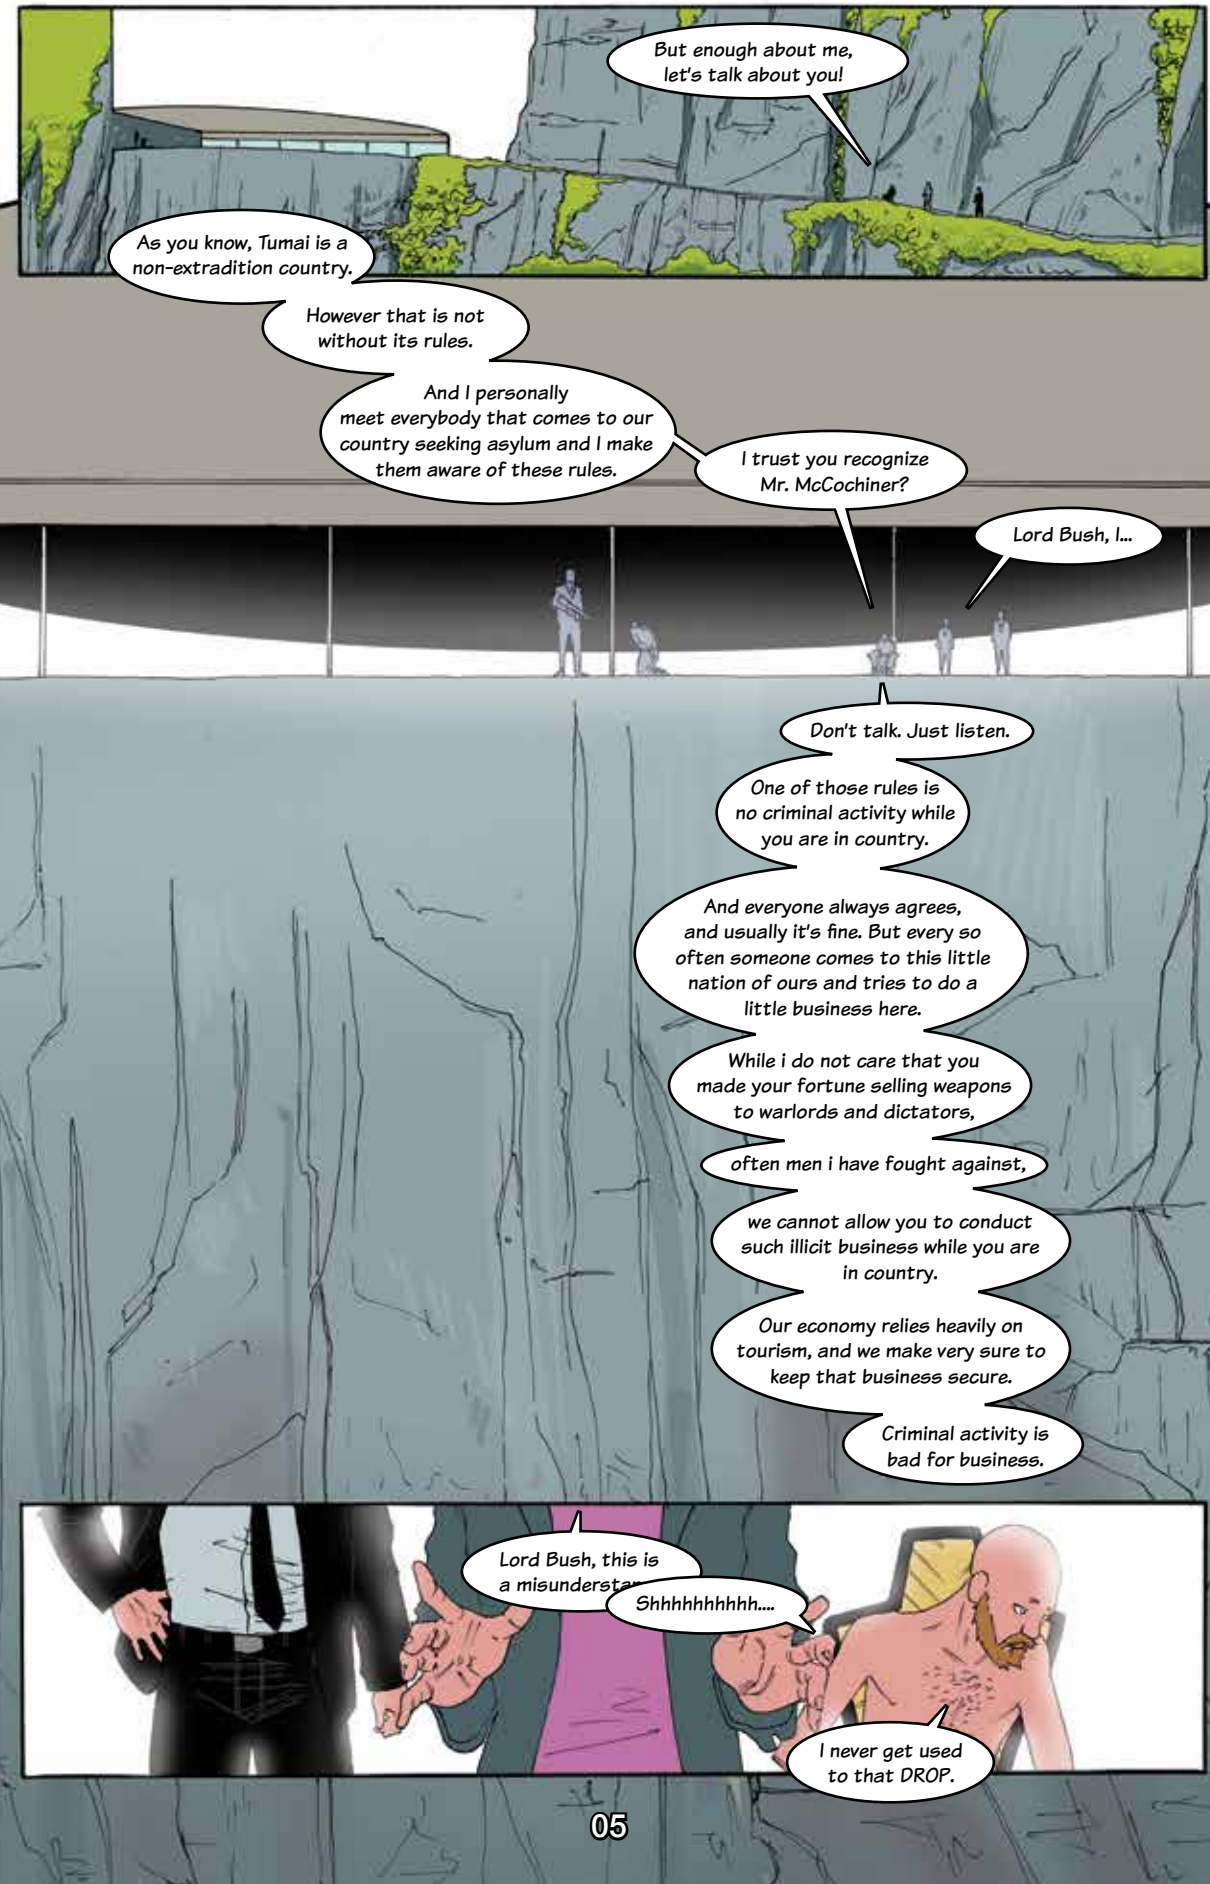

Treasure hunting.

And with those treasures,

as well as some very lucrative patents and breakthroughs, we established this little nation of ours outside of the rule of self-proclaimed super powers.

So you see, Mr. Gregorovich, given this life of strife and success, I do not fear "stepping on toes".

But enough about me, let's talk about you!

As you know, Tumai is a non-extradition country.

However that is not without its rules.

And I personally meet everybody that comes to our country seeking asylum and I make them aware of these rules.

I trust you recognize Mr. McCochiner?

Lord Bush, I...

Don't talk. Just listen.

One of those rules is no criminal activity while you are in country.

And everyone always agrees, and usually it's fine. But every so often someone comes to this little nation of ours and tries to do a little business here.

While i do not care that you made your fortune selling weapons to warlords and dictators, often men i have fought against,

we cannot allow you to conduct such illicit business while you are in country.

Our economy relies heavily on tourism, and we make very sure to keep that business secure.

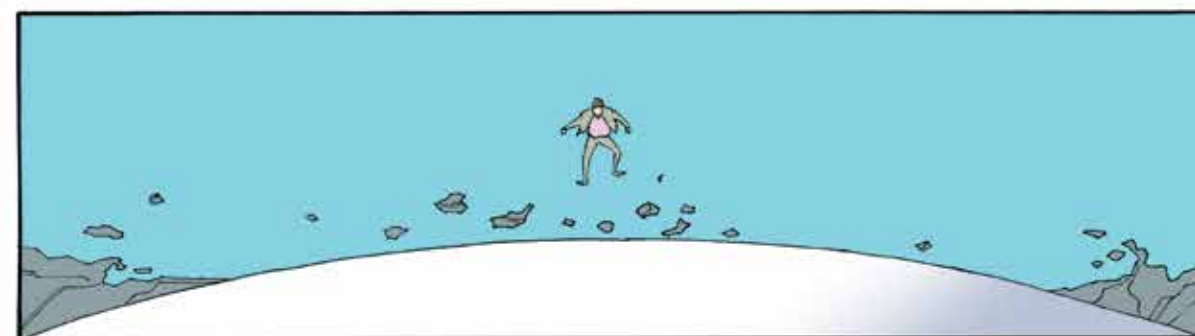

Criminal activity is bad for business.

Lord Bush, this is a misunderstanding.

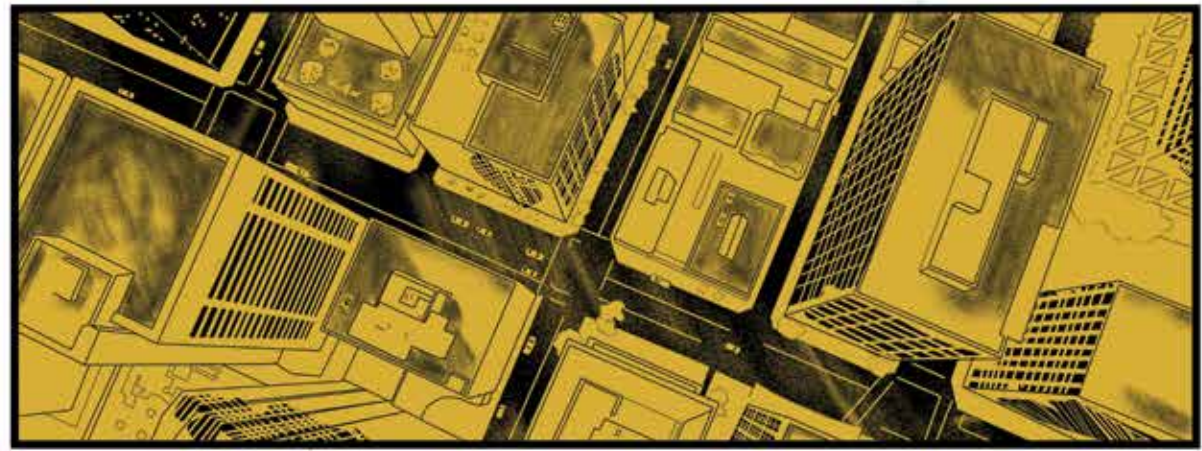

Shhhhhhhhh...

I never get used to that DROP.

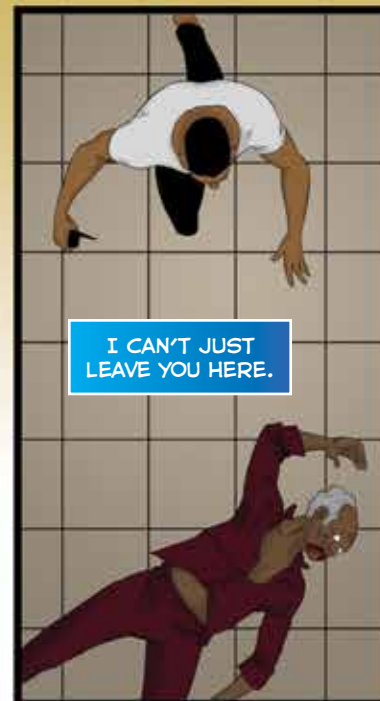

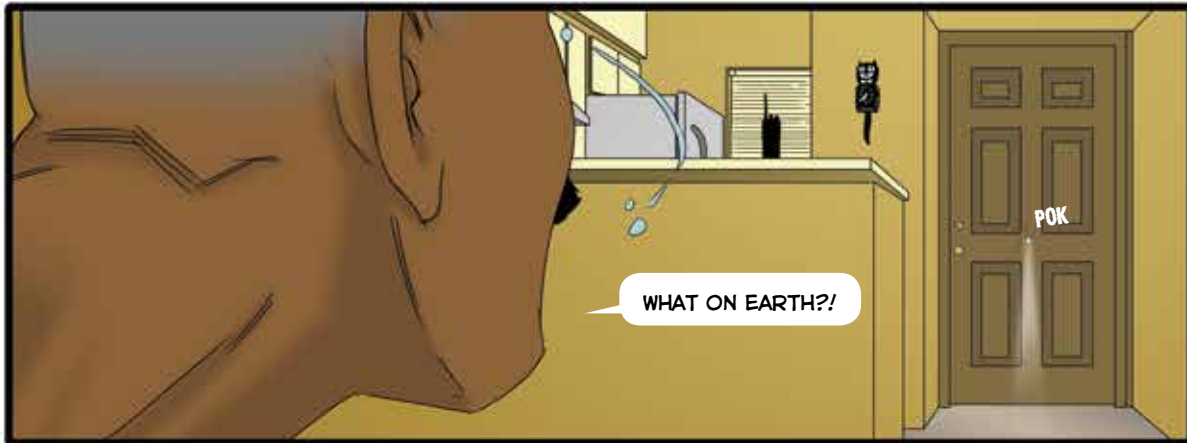

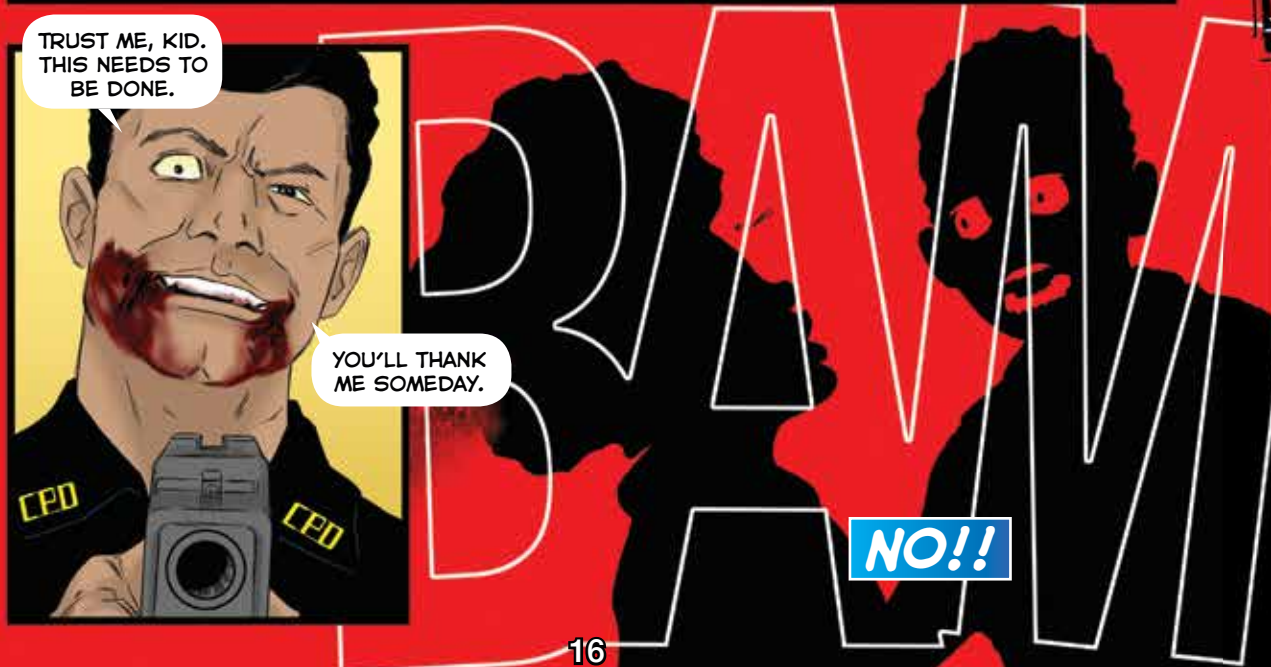

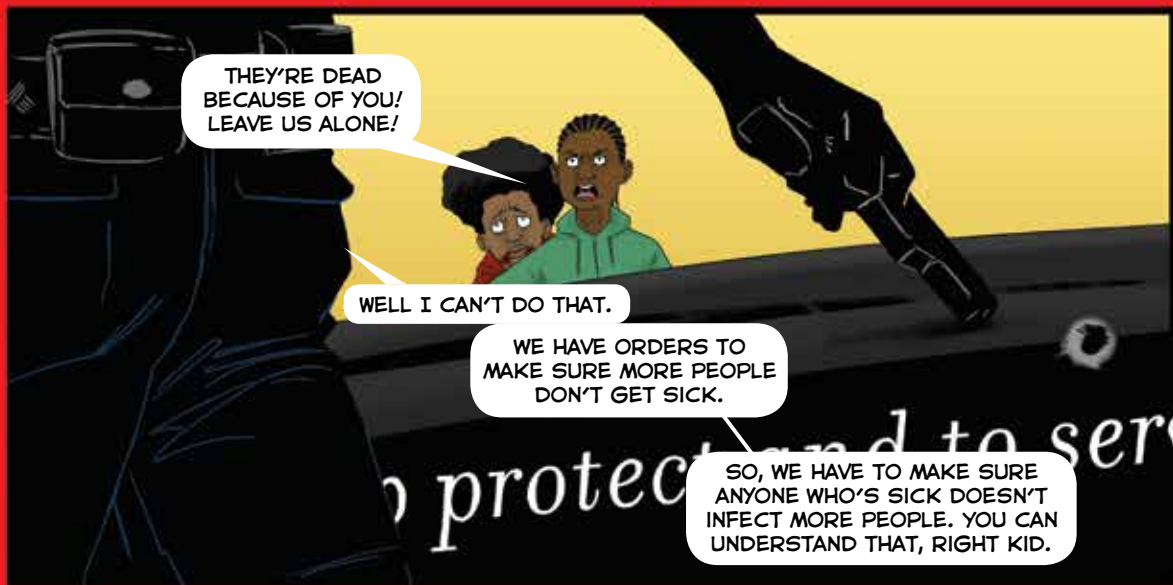

Ok, let's just be happy about that at least and let that old fucker go.

Hello, my precious.

Let's see. Channel twoooooooo.

Next up is His Dudeness, his second at bat THIS INNING!

Stomach hurts. I should eat.

Eh, it's probably just nerves. Stress

Oooh, that was spicy. Maybe no pizza tonight

And here's his first pitch and...

OH!! He just got out of the way of the one!

Deliberate.

The ump is giving Raina the benefit of doubt and not issuing a warning.

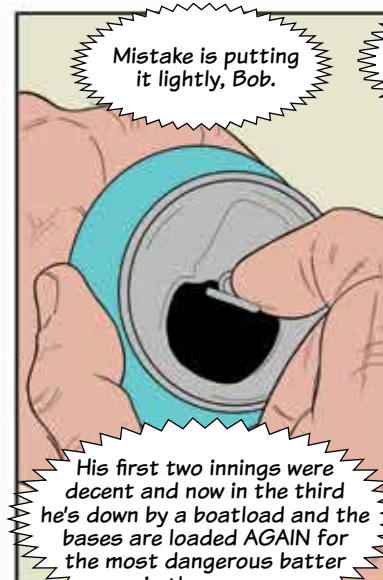

Are you fucking kidding me?

And here comes The Boss to have a chat with his young pitcher.

Maybe he's now realizing the mistake it's been keeping him in, Steve Nah, keep him in.

Mistake is putting it lightly, Bob.

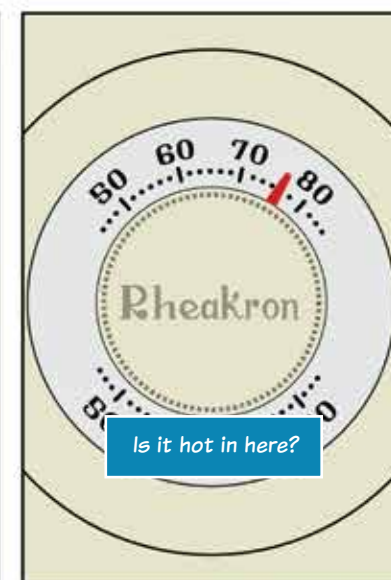

His first two innings were decent and now in the third he's down by a boatload and the bases are loaded AGAIN for the most dangerous batter in the game.

Right Steve, and let's take a look at his last at bat. A grand slam home run to the upper deck!

Hohoholeeee shiiiiit!

Of course I miss that.

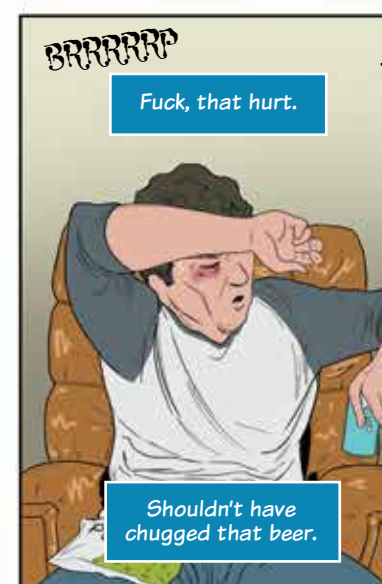

Is it hot in here?

And he's gonna keep him in!

You gotta wonder, Bob, what is going on through this manager's head?

BRRRRRP

Fuck, that hurt.

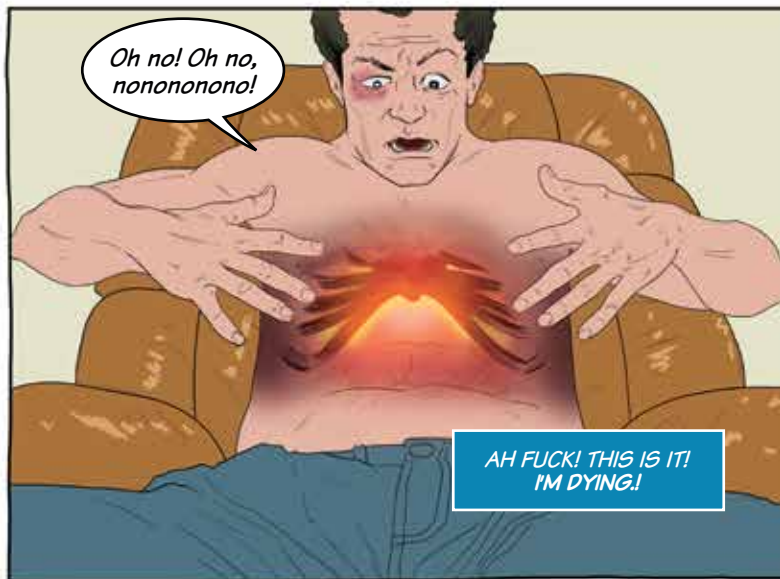

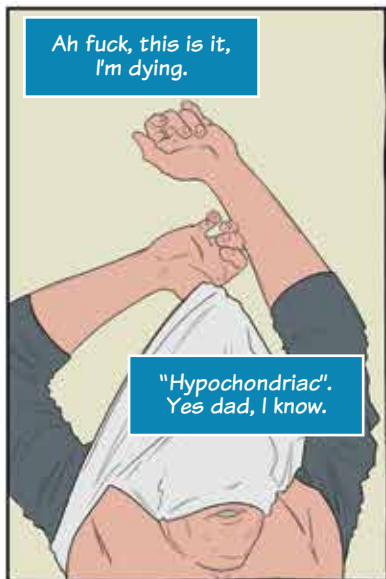

Shouldn't have chugged that beer.

His Dudeness is eying his opponent like a predator.

And Raina looks a little nervous.

THE BULLPIN

Dear Sirs,

In a world full of recycled, repainted, and regurgitated concepts, it was a breath of fresh air to see and read something completely different when I read issue #1 of your book. Being an old school comic reader for 40 years, I've seen my fair share of copy and paste story lines and characters in every possible way. But in your book, I never knew what was coming next. Every panel had something new to see and dialog that was fresh and exciting. I can't wait to pick up issue 2 to see what wonders you have in store for my senses. Thank you for providing me with something new to look forward to. Keep them coming!

Preston McCaffrey-Jones, Baño, CA

JJ: Do...do you really hyphenate your name?

CARLOS: Beta.

Carlos and JJ,

I keep going back to this first issue of Castle Bravo and keep finding all of the things that I missed the previous times. I must say though my favorite part is the Denver airport! So much going on yet so much mystery and they left me hanging in a bad way! Something interesting but also unsettling about that old bird with the key to Castle Bravo. Please, give us more! XOXO

Jon, Antioch, CA

C: Did he just send hugs and kisses?

J: Yeah! He loves us!

C: Uuuuh...thanks buddy.

Boys,

That was a very fun first issue! I really like how every story LOOKS different. Rubi is so cute, I think that was my favorite story. JJ, you're a son of a bitch.

Staisha, Fort Lauderdale, FL

J: Thanks, Staish! We appreciate the support!

C: You ARE a son of a bitch.

Castle Bravo is a must read comic! I really enjoyed the Rubi X and The Recruit stories! Even with cliffhangers I'm still patiently waiting for my second issue! Bring it on chicos!

June, Tampa, FL

JJ: Do...do you really hyphenate your name?

CARLOS: Beta.

Re: ALLOW MEEEEEEEEEE 😊 😊 🍷 🍷

If I'm not incorrect, I believe we hung out a while ago, although you probably don't remember me. Please allow me to send you some private photos to refresh your memory.

Courtney Kissss, Probably Russia

J: Hey hey, feel free to send whatever you got this way.

C: Dude, that's a bot.

J: You don't know that!

C: Idiot.

Gentlemen, and the public at large,
Never have I been in the presence of such profound, talented, inspirational and imaginative people, whose vivid creativity expands not just an expectation, but also our very hidden desires of how one is more connected to our subconscious mind so we can see our true divinity of self-awareness. If there were any immortal who could move my utmost true nature of what I am, surely these individuals are the ones.
Thank you, Carlos and JJ.

Sincerely,

The Vampire Jermaine, Everywhen

C: We know fuckin' vampires?!

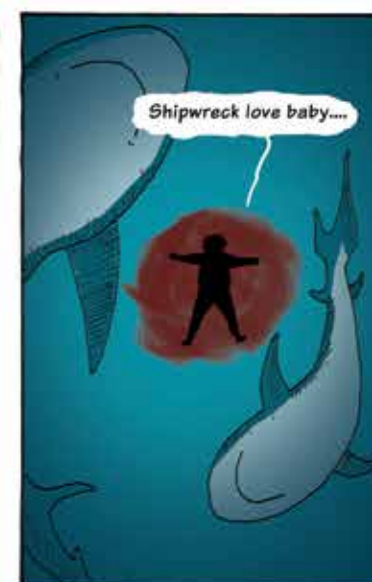

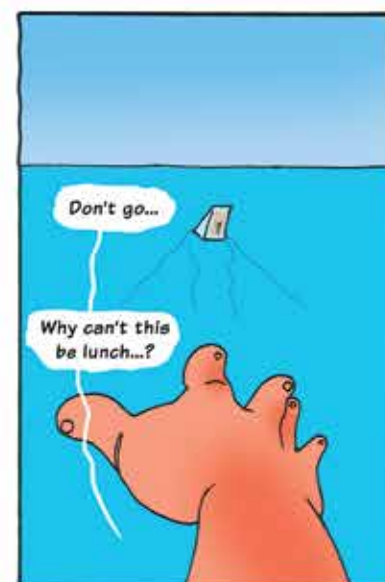

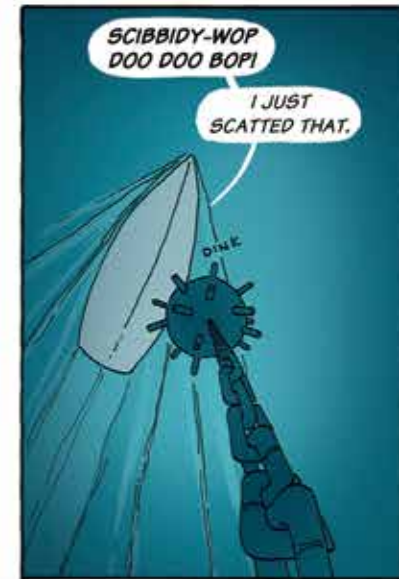

J: Several, I'm sure.

XYUX XLIJ YWBI. WLCNCWUF

C: Why is this in here?

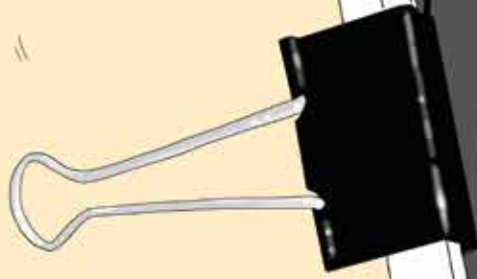

J: Don't ask. I'll tell you later.
